Info:

The history behind “Roter Teufel”

The vessels is named after medieval pirate Klau Størtebeckers, flag ship with the same name.

Reconstruction of carrier from around 1390, built in 2003.

Built in oak, 200 dwt.

Clinker built in 50-60 mm thick oak wood planks. The first 5 planks from the bottom are built in carvel technique after archaeological specimen. The hull is in excellent condition, as new, under the waterline. There are photos of the hull from May 2015, when the ship was in dry – dock in Stockholm / Beckholmen for inspection. Both the ship itself and the rigging, as well as its machinery / engine are in absolute top condition. The crude is new.

The vessel holds the “Global maritime distress safety system” and the fire safety system / equipment on board is immaculate and was completed 2015.
